ABOUT LI-YOUNG LEE
Li-Young Lee is the author of four critically acclaimed books of poetry including his most recent, “Behind My Eyes” (Norton, 2008). Earlier volumes include “Book of My Nights” (BOA, 2001); “Rose” (BOA, 1986), which won the Delmore Schwartz Memorial Award; “The City in Which I Love You” (BOA, 1991), which earned the 1990 Lamont Poetry Selection; and a memoir entitled “The Winged Seed: A Remembrance” (Simon and Schuster, 1995), which received an American Book Award from the Before Columbus Foundation. Lee’s honors include fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts, the Lannan Foundation and the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation, as well as grants from the Illinois Arts Council, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts. In 1988 he received the Writer’s Award from the Mrs. Giles Whiting Foundation. He is also featured in Katja Esson’s documentary, “Poetry of Resilience.”

Born in 1957 of Chinese parents in Jakarta, Indonesia, Lee learned early about loss and exile. His great-grandfather was China’s first republican president; his father, a deeply religious Christian, was the physician of Communist leader Mao Tse-Tung. After the establishment of the People’s Republic of China in 1949, Lee’s parents escaped to Indonesia. In 1959 his father, after spending a year as a political prisoner in President Sukarno's jails, fled Indonesia with his family to escape anti-Chinese sentiment. After a five-year trek through Hong Kong, Macau and Japan, they settled in the United States in 1964.

Lee lives in Chicago with his wife Donna and their two sons.

“What characterizes Lee’s poetry is a certain humility... a willingness to let the sublime enter his field of concentration and take over, a devotion to language, a belief in its holiness.” – Gerald Stern

Our mission is to promote scholarly research through fellowships and awards; foster critical conversations across disciplines; create and sustain an intellectual community for the exchange of ideas; and support lectures, conferences, seminars, study groups and symposia in the Taft disciplines. Above all, we hope to fulfill and further Annie Sinton Taft’s own vision of sustaining a “concentration of interest in the development of ideas.”

In 1930, Annie Sinton Taft endowed the Charles Phelps Taft Memorial Fund in honor of her late husband. Today, members of the Taft family serve as trustees of the endowment.

“A concentration of interest in the development of ideas.”
