This report details the first year of operation of the Charles Phelps Taft Research Center at the University of Cincinnati. In sum, our inaugural year as a research center was a significant success due to the creative oversight of the Faculty Executive Board, the substantive work of our standing review committees, and the excellent partnership and support of the Charles Phelps Taft Memorial Fund Trustees and the Administration of the University of Cincinnati. Our productivity and activity as a research center was substantial. Over the nine months between our ribbon-cutting ceremony at Taft House at Stratford Heights in September and our first Annual Research Symposium in May, the Taft Research Center competitively selected 300 awards for faculty, graduate and undergraduate students, hosted 27 lectures from an array of outstanding scholars, conducted two year-long research seminars and one quarter-based seminar with 7 visiting Taft Fellows from 5 countries, who resided at Taft House, and facilitated the multidisciplinary research exchange of 6 UC faculty, who served as our inaugural Taft Center Faculty Fellows as well as a range of other activities. The year culminated with the Taft Annual Research Symposium, which drew close to 1000 people over two days to our presentations and a celebration of the 75th Year anniversary of the Memorial Fund’s distribution to the ‘Humanities.’

As Faculty Chair, I am pleased to report that the transition from our distributive fund model of the past to our new research center configuration has now positioned the Taft disciplines within the McMicken College of Arts & Sciences for greater internal interaction among our scholars, more sustained exchange with the wider external academy, and higher profile overall that will enable our supported research and scholarship to have broader impact. In 2005-6, we properly leveraged our endowment support and laid the groundwork for the ‘next 75 years’ of Taft Memorial Fund history.

The remainder of this report summarizes the reporting of Standing Committee Chairs as well as Faculty Executive Board meetings.

I. Administration and Governance

The opening of the Taft Research Center presented a number of challenges, not least of which was to transition effectively from past practices. The first year of Center activity was also the seventy-fifth year of distribution from the Taft Memorial Fund. We, therefore, administratively had to maintain the quality of all our past practices, while developing mechanisms for managing new programs and new physical space, both of which produced unique demands.

Academic year 2005-6, represented a major increase in administrative and governance activity for the entire Faculty Executive Board and for the Taft Office staff. When the Center plan was accepted in 2004-5, we had decided to maintain the structure of governance that had been in place since 1989. This was an excellent decision as the Faculty Executive Board and Standing Committees operated quite effectively through this transition. Our default was to move new program oversight into existing committees and create new structures only where necessary. Thus, the new Taft Research Seminars with Visiting Fellows program was placed under the Research Support Committee and we re-configured faculty awards into two distinct committees: Faculty Travel Awards and Faculty Fellowships. A new Center Fellows selection committee was created, given the unique nature of the new Taft Center Fellows program (see below). All of the committees operated very well and we do not anticipate any structural adjustments at this time for new programs. One important point of note is the dedicated nature of the 31 faculty who serve on all of our committees. Taft committee service requires a significant time commitment to provide rigorous review of proposals and attentive program oversight. The service this year was excellent.

In total, the Faculty Executive Board met 10 times during the year, including special meetings held to discuss the conversion to the Center, the Taft Professor selection, and long-term budgeting. In general, the Board’s activities this year focused on:

- Normal oversight of our programs and standing committees. (See Program Sections).
- Implementation of new Taft Research Center programs. (See Program Sections)
- Launching of the Annual Research Symposium and 75th anniversary celebration.
- Budget analysis in the context of the new Center configuration
Our standing committees held 20 formal meetings and many consultations.

The Executive Board and its committees were supported through the exceptional work of Joy Dunn, the Taft Secretary and Sr. Business Services Assistant. Simply put, the Taft Research Center would not have been launched successfully without Joy’s continued effective and efficient management of the Taft office and her interactions with faculty, students, departments, the college office and other agencies. With the addition of a residential component to the operations of the Taft Memorial Fund (Taft House with visiting scholars from both the Taft Center and the Classic department’s Margot Tytus Scholars program), Joy’s responsibilities grew significantly.

This year we initiated the Taft Center Graduate Fellow, who had two primary functions: one, to serve as House liaison with visiting scholars and Taft graduate residents and two, to support administrative program needs. The appointment required 10 hours per week. As Chair, I was attentive to these demands, however, the amount of support work regularly required more than the 10 hour allotment. Thus, while I as Chair picked up a significant amount of administrative burden, the Graduate Center Fellow also served the Center beyond his appointment requirements. Viorel Paslaru was an invaluable asset to the Taft Center in our first year and the Faculty Executive Board determined that his appointment should be extended for a second year. The concluding section of this report deals with administrative implications and plans regarding administering the Center effectively into the future.

The Faculty Chair continued the practice initiated in 2003 of meeting with the ten Taft Department Heads at the beginning of the year and added an end of year meeting held in June to prepare for 2005-6 and take stock on the first year of the Center.

The Taft Research Center was very well supported by the McMicken College of Arts & Sciences with development of our publicity materials. The Taft Research Center was highlighted in UC publications throughout the year, in speeches by President Nancy Zimpher and Dean Karen Gould, and in an A&S College Compact Disc produced for alumni. As Faculty Chair, I was also invited by Provost Tony Perzigian to make a presentation to the entire UC Board of Trustees. The profile of the Taft Research Center on and off campus was substantial and the support of the University’s administration was critical.

Finally in terms of administrative activities, the Executive Board authorized the Faculty Chair to develop an annual ‘Request for Taft Proposals’ document that would provide an overview of all our programs and continue to build our profile. This was completed during the summer of 2006 and released as “RFP Taft: request for proposals 2006.” This will be updated annually and distributed electronically at the start of every academic year. The Board also authorized the Faculty Chair to review all website guidelines and create uniform cover sheets for all of our programs. This was also accomplished during the summer.

II. Student Programs (32% of the Fund)

Student Awards Committee

The Student Awards Committee for the 2005-2006 academic year consisted of the following faculty: Willard Sunderland, Chair (History); Don Bogen (English); Kelly Moore (Sociology); Charles Groetsch (Mathematics); Michele Vialet (Romance Languages and Literature). The Committee’s budget totaled $398,000. The committee met on 7 occasions during the academic year: twice during the fall term, twice during winter quarter, and three times in the spring. The business of the committee consisted of deliberations on applications for undergraduate and graduate grant applications. The following provides a breakdown of the committee’s work in the relevant grant categories:

Advanced Graduate Fellowships:

The budget for AGFs for academic year 2005-2006 totaled $199,000. Of this, $100,000 was directed towards 8 Advanced Departmental Fellowships (ADF) (@$12,500 each), $24,000 was allocated for summer support for the Advanced Departmental Fellowships ( @$3,000 each), and $75,000 was provided to fund 6 competitive Advanced Departmental Fellowships. The committee approved the 8 candidates nominated for the departmental ADFs. In addition, it evaluated 18 nominations for the competitive ADFs, awarding 6, with the following distribution among departments: English (1), German (1), History (1), Math (1), Philosophy (1), Political Science (1).

Graduate Travel Awards

The budget for this category was $20,000. For the year, the committee evaluated 44 applications. Of these, 30 were awarded from 7 departments with an allocation of $17,480.58. The small remainder of budget allocation was re-allocated towards graduate and undergraduate enrichment awards.

Graduate Enrichment Awards

The budget for Graduate Enrichment was $20,000. Over the year, the committee considered 30 proposals from students. Of these, 27 were funded from 7 departments at a $44,843.30. The budget deficit in this category was covered through re-allocation of unexpended Department Enhancement Award money and Graduate Travel.

Graduate Enhancement Fellowships

The budget for Enhancement Fellowships was $125,000. For the year, 62 graduate students across the ten Taft departments received some form of support through this program.

Undergraduate Enrichment Awards

Undergraduate Enrichment was allocated a budget line of $20,000 for 2005-2006. The committee reviewed 34 applications in this category from students representing 9 departments. Of these, 27 were funded, providing awards totaling $46,610. The budget overrun in this category was met by reallocation from the DEA budget line.

Summary

The Taft Research Center provides crucial support for graduate and undergraduate students in Taft departments. Because the graduate and undergraduate enrichment awards are flexible and can be used to support a wide variety of activities and projects, they are extremely popular. The demand of competitive proposals easily overwhelmed the $40,000 allocated and a total of $91,453 was spent, because funds were available from the DEA budget line. Given the high demand of quality proposals, the Committee recommended a review of the funding support for students with an eye toward increasing base support as well as levels of funding within awards (such as per diems), rather than relying on adhoc reallocation.

The committee was impressed by the high quality of student applications. The Committee recommended that efforts be undertaken to update some of its application forms, provide sample applications, and clarify some of the instructions and requirements on student awards that it provides through the Center website. These measures would help to streamline the application process, while offering students additional resources for ensuring that they submit competitive and polished applications. The Faculty Chair instituted these recommendations over the summer and met with both Graduate and Undergraduate Department Directors to walk them through new streamlined applications and encourage greater department review of draft proposals before they are submitted.

The Committee recommended changes to the Advanced Departmental Fellowships to underscore the prestige of these coveted awards and bring them to nationally competitive levels. The Executive Board voted to change the name of the award to the Charles Phelps Taft Dissertation Fellowship, which brings the award in line with national norms in how the award should be presented on vita. The Board also agreed to expand the Annual Symposium so that the Dissertation Fellows are provided a high profile event at which they can present their work. Finally, the Board approved a budget proposal to increase the award by $1000 per fellowship in 2007-8.

The Executive Board also took action, based on Committee discussions, to raise the profile and research experience of undergraduates and proposed creating in the 2007-8 academic year an undergraduate senior research thesis to parallel the Dissertation Fellowship programmatically. This new program was supported unanimously at the Board level and will be presented to the Taft Trustees in November 2006.

III. Faculty Awards (32% of the Fund)

Four distinct standing committees provide oversight and review of individual faculty awards: the Faculty Travel Committee administers 3 programs, the Faculty Fellowship Committee 2 programs, the Center Fellows committee 1 program, and the Publications Committee 2 programs. The four committee chairs’ reports are summarized below.

A. Faculty Travel Awards Committee

The Faculty Travel Awards Committee included Debasish Pal, Chair (Economics), Jim Deddens (Mathematics), Todd Herzog (German Studies), Michael Griffith (English) and Chris Phillips (History).

Faculty Travel Awards supported three award categories: Research Travel Grants, International Conference Travel Awards and Domestic Travel Grants. The total budget for the travel awards was $70,000.00. Due to increased demand in this category, an additional $17,500 was allocated for Faculty Travel early in the year from unexpended DEA funds, giving rise to an available amount of $87,500.00. This mid-year allocation proved insufficient to cover demand of quality proposals. The total spending in this category for the year was $94,557.86, giving rise to a deficit of $7,057.86, which was covered through re-allocation from Research Support cost-share monies that came available.

Research Travel Grants

Research Grants for Travel are grants meant to cover expenses for faculty who need to travel in order to conduct their research. The initial budget for this category was $12,500. These awards are limited to $3,500 in any 24-month period. We received 14 proposals and were able to fund (totally or partially) 11 requests totaling $24,933.00.

International Conference Travel Awards

Taft provides support for faculty members who are invited to make presentations at international academic meetings. The initial budget for this category was $37,500. These grants are particularly valuable to our faculty and they continue to be a popular and well-utilized source of funding. These grants enable faculty to publicize their research around the world and garner important and useful contacts with international colleagues in their fields. These awards are limited to $2,500 in any 24-month period. This year we received 41 proposals and were able to fund 40 requests (totally or partially) totaling $52,394.61. This was a substantial increase in demand from the previous year.

Domestic Travel Grants

The Taft Fund helped defray travel expenses for faculty members invited to make presentations at academic meetings within the United States. The budget for this category was $20,000. These awards are limited to $700.00 in an academic year per individual applicant. We received 39 proposals and funded all requests (totally or partially) totaling $17,230.25.

Summary

The Committee concluded that the quality of invited presentations was quite high among Taft faculty, who continue to build strong networks throughout their professional disciplines. In addition, important research requiring travel was conducted with Taft support. Had funds not been available from other budget categories, however, nearly half the proposals that met Travel award category standards would not have been funded. The Committee recommended that the Board conduct a review of base funding as well as funding within categories (per diem, for example) and requested increases. The committee also considered expanding coverage to include the role of discussants as a fundable category for conference travel. This recommendation was discussed at the Board level and concern was expressed that there existed significant variance across disciplines as to the amount of original research work that is related to the role. No Board action was taken in 2005-6 on this issue and it will remain an agenda item for discussion in 2006-7. The Board did recommend increases in Faculty Travel for 2007-8 pending Taft Trustee approval.

B. Faculty Fellowship Committee
The Faculty Fellowship Committee included Victor Kaftal, Chair (Mathematics); Brock Clarke (English); Christine Cuomo (Philosophy); Jennifer Malat (Sociology); Martha Rees (Anthropology).

Faculty Release Fellowships (formally known as the competitive faculty fellowship)
These fellowships of $5,000 paid directly to the Department allow a faculty member to be released from teaching for one quarter in order to pursue a specific research project. It is required that applicants obtain at least one additional quarter of release time (generally in the form of academic or professional leave). The budget for this award was 5 fellowships for a total of $25,000. The number of FRF applications varies directly with the number of sabbaticals in any given year. This year the Committee received 8 applications for the 5 fellowships (3 Associate professors and 5 full Professors). The quality level of the applications was good and the committee awarded all 5 fellowships (3 to Associate Professors and 2 to Professors) and selected one alternate. One of the 5 awardees received an external fellowship and hence declined the FRF, which was then awarded to the alternate. In addition, the Committee awarded $2,000 for one research supplement.

Summer Research Fellowships
This program provides twelve fellowships of $6,500 to support faculty members’ summer research endeavors. Of these up to 3 fellowships are set aside for untenured junior faculty in tenure-track positions who have never been awarded and/or used a Taft Summer Research Grant. The number of applications and the number of applicants qualifying for the set-aside pool fluctuates significantly from year to year. This pattern of variance continued in 2005-6: two years ago we had 25 applications, last year 17 applications and this year only 10 applications. This year there were applications from 3 Assistant Professors, 4 Associate Professors, and 3 Full Professors and they were all funded. It is important to note that the availability of funds was not a determining factor in committee decision-making; that is, had any of the ten proposals not been of necessary quality, the Committee would have rejected the proposal and transferred the unused fellowships back to the Board for potential reallocation. In addition, the Committee awarded a total of $8,350 in research supplements for specific project costs.

Summary
The main planning issue under discussion was whether a decrease in the amount of the Summer Faculty Fellowship (when the Center’s budget was reconfigured the fellowship was dropped to $6500 from $7000) had contributed to the decline in applications. While there was no way to verify this possibility, it was noted that the Taft Summer Research Fellowship had dropped significantly below the University Research Council’s Summer Fellowship. In part to make these fellowships more attractive to our faculty and retain the program’s profile, the Committee recommended and the full Board approved an increase of the stipend to $8,000 as part of the 2007-8 budget proposal.

C. Taft Center Fellows Committee
Given the high profile nature of the Center Fellows program and its unique objective of encouraging a multidisciplinary environment at the Taft Research Center, the Center Fellows Committee membership is established through by-law procedures. The Faculty Chair nominates candidates from a pool of previous Fellows. Selection of the 2006-7 fellows, however, required a transitional structure since the pool had yet to become available. The Faculty Chair nominated a list of distinguished faculty with records of significant scholarship and the Executive Board appointed: Barbara Ramusack (Taft Professor, History), Armando Romero (Taft Professor, RLL), Timothy Hodges (Mathematics), David Lundgren (Sociology). Richard Harknett served as Chair representing the Board.

The committee considered 10 applications and selected six fellows each of whom met the two critical criteria of proposing a significant research project and explaining how they would contribute to and benefit from a multidisciplinary environment during the year as a Center Fellow. The selection was very difficult given the caliber of the applicants. The 2006-7 fellows will be: Russel Durst (English), Founding Figures in Composition Studies; Sigrun Haude (History), Survival During the 30 Years’ War (1618-1648); Thomas Moore (Political Science), East Asia, and Regional Order in an Era of Globalization; Debashis Pal (Economics), Why are the Optimal Contracts Not Used? Understanding the Divergence Between Optimal and Conventional Contracts; Vernon Scarborough (Anthropology), How to Interpret an Ancient Landscape; Richard Schade (German Studies), Gunter Grass's Graphic Art and Literary Texts. The 2006-7 budget for this category was fully allocated at $91,050.

Summary

The inaugural year of the Center Fellows program was a significant success. The six fellows met regularly at Taft House in lunch seminars and finished the year convinced that they would continue their cross-disciplinary professional exchange as they returned to their departments. This is a critical aspect of the program and the success of creating a multidisciplinary cohort rested primarily on the seriousness of purpose which all six Center fellows displayed through the year. Across the six fellows, the research productivity was exceptional. Two books are under review at prestigious publishers and six refereed articles have been completed at the time of this report with three already accepted for publication and two book chapters accepted as well.

D. Publications Committee (0.8% of the Fund)

The Publications Committee consisted of Jana Braziel (English and Comparative Literature), Tara Smith (Mathematics), and Jeffrey Timberlake, who served as Chair (Sociology). The Committee evaluates support for direct publication subvention and subsidies for indexing, translations, the preparation of photos, illustrations, and maps, and accompanying copyrights. In the academic year 2005-2006 the Committee received four applications. One was rejected because the book for which the subvention was requested had already been published. The other three applications were approved for a total of $3,588.00 in disbursements. Martha Rees, (Anthropology) Women’s Work is Never Done: Community and Migration in Oaxaca, Mexico and two awards to Steven Bowman for different publication aspects of The Agony of Greek Jewry During World War II.

IV. Departmental and Interdisciplinary Programs (40.7% of the Fund)

A. Research Support

The Research Support Committee consisted of Claude Lopez (Economics), Robert Richardson (Philosophy), David Stradling (History), Nicasio Urbina (Romance Languages), and was chaired by Lucille Schultz (English). The committee had four meetings (October, January, February, April), during which it reviewed eleven applications: three for cost-sharing, six for research support, and two for research seminars. While some of these proposals required revision, all were judged excellent and all were funded.

Cost-Sharing Awards

We received three requests for cost-sharing (all from History) and we funded all of them. Two constituted matching funds (salary replacement), one for a Mellon Post-Doctoral Fellowship, and one for a study funded in part by the American Institute of Indian Studies. This second project will be conducted from mid-October 2006 to mid-March 2007 in three cities in India: New Delhi, Bangalore, and Chennai.
The third cost-sharing award supported matching funds for a major grant application to the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH); this project is entitled, “Nation, Family, State: Women’s Political Writings, a Web-Based Research and Teaching Resource.” Total cost: $28,065.

Research Support

This award category is aimed at underwriting expenses associated with faculty research through (1) department allocations, (2) special requests for research, and (3) special requests for library purchases.

Of the special requests for research, four involved bringing scholars to campus for collaborative research. Length of stay for each visiting research collaborator ranged from two to ten weeks and often included a seminar or workshop presented by the visitor. Two of the four requests were from Mathematics, two from Economics. The Committee was impressed with the caliber of the visiting scholars, who are highly distinguished in their fields and come to UC from Germany, France, and Poland.

The two requests in this category for major library purchases were from English and History. The requests, both of which were funded, provided significant additions to UC’s microfilm holdings of the Mass-Observation Archive (one of the most important resources for the study of the political, social and cultural history of 20th-century Britain), and for parts of the Gay Rights Movement microfilm series (making UC the only university in Ohio to house this valuable collection of primary documents). The total cost of these six awards was $88,140. It is important to note that Taft support of the library purchases leveraged matching UC library budget expenditures to enable the library to purchase more of the collections sought by Taft researchers.

Research Seminars

We received two requests for research seminars, one from Romance Languages and one from Mathematics. While one of the requests required revising to accommodate Taft guidelines, both proposals were judged excellent and were funded. Both proposals involved prominent visitors and a critical mass of UC faculty (from several departments) and students.

The seminar from Romance Languages is entitled “Racism in French and Francophone Literatures” and will bring these scholars to UC: Professor Clarissa Zimra (Southern Illinois U), Professor Lucy Stone McNee (University of Connecticut), Professor Rangira Bea Gallimore (University of Missouri)

The seminar from Mathematics is entitled “Analysis and Control of Nonlinear Dispersive Wave Equations” and will bring these scholars to UC: Professor Shu-Ming Sun (Virginia Tech), Professor Lionel Rosier (University of Nancy, France), Professor Vilmos Komornik (University Louis Pasteur, Strasbourg).

The total cost for the two seminars was allocated at $83,950.

Summary

The first year of the Taft Research Seminar exceeded our expectations in terms of the collaborations created between Taft faculty and students and external visiting Taft Fellows. All involved reported significant progress on research and collaborative efforts.

B. Conferences and Lectures Committee (6.5% of the Fund)

The committee consisted of Thomas Moore, Chair (Political Science), Sara Beth Estes (Sociology), Carlos Gutierrez (Romance Languages and Literature), and Sigrun Haude (History). This committee oversees two programs: support for Conferences to be held at UC and lectures beyond those allocated to departments, which must be considered competitively for funding.
The committee selected three proposals for conferences. First, the committee selected a proposal from the Economics department, cosponsored by the Economics department and the Institute for Applied Economic Research, to host the 16th Annual Meeting of the Midwest Econometrics Group in October 2006. Taft supported an award of $7,400 for this conference. Second, the committee selected a proposal from the Philosophy department for a conference on Two More Decades of Scientific Explanation, held in May 2006. Taft supported an award of $6,400 for this conference. Third, the committee selected a proposal from the Mathematical Sciences department to host the Great Plains Operator Theory Symposium in May 2008. With an award of $7,000 from Taft, Mathematical Sciences will seek matching funds from the National Science Foundation, the Institute of Mathematics and its Applications, and various UC sources.

Summary
The demand for competitive lectures remained high, with the committee supporting 12 lectures through our competitive fund. The competitive lectures came from eight different Taft departments. Significantly, in both the categories of conferences and competitive lectures, the committee received proposals that successfully leveraged Taft money with additional non-Taft funds in order to have a wider impact and/or bring to campus significant scholars.

D. Major Awards Committee (15.7% of the Fund)
The Major Awards Committee consisted of Richard Harknett, Chair (Executive Board Chair); Paula Dubeck (Sociology), Wolfgang Mayer (Economics), Richard Schade (German), George Gibson Carey (representing the Trustees).

The main effort of the committee in 2005-6 was the selection of a new Taft Professor to replace the retiring Patricia Hill Collins (Sociology). The committee began its efforts in June with a call for applications with a deadline of August. The Committee’s initial review was of ten files that were truly representative of the high quality of scholarship that exists in the Taft departments. In September, the committee agreed to solicit extensive outside letters of review and recommendation for five of the nominated professors. In October/November, the committee met again and reviewed the complete dossiers of the short-listed candidates and took to the Executive Board the unanimous recommendation of Robert C. Richardson from the Department of Philosophy for the position. Professor Richardson was formally appointed as a Charles Phelps Taft Professor by the University Board of Trustees at their Winter meeting. Prof. Richardson will give his Taft Professor lecture in October 2006.

The second program under the oversight of the Major Awards Committee is the Department Enhancement Award. For the second time in four years, the program generated no applications (last year there was only one application and it was deemed unacceptable). In the Spring of 2005, the Executive Board had reviewed the program and raised the issue of reconsidering the program’s objectives now that the Center had been created. It was determined at that time to allow one additional round of proposals. The lack of any proposals despite Taft Executive Board encouragement led to a second major review this past Spring 2006. The Executive Board voted unanimously to suspend the program for 2006-7 and reinvest the DEA’s budget line of $135,000 in a new program of direct enhancement of all ten Taft department’s undergraduate student research efforts and reallocate DEA money to support programs vital to faculty research. The Executive Board’s budget proposal for 2007-8 thus requests that the Taft Trustees close the DEA program.

Overall, the DEA program produced important enhancements and program successes. Critically, however, the structure of the award assumed that Taft money would seed institutional support that would sustain programs after the Taft grant. Departments have increasingly dedicated their resources to sustaining programs already in place and have not had the means to consider major expansion or creation of new programming. The investment in time and effort to meet the standards of the DEA was significant. The creation of the Taft Center, however, is now meeting many of the objectives originally contemplated under the DEA program. Thus, the Board concluded that a shift in the investment of Taft money toward programming within the Center and directly enhancing department efforts will produce significant benefits, enhanced profile, and substantive results for Taft faculty and students.

In 2005-6, there were two DEA awards entering their second year of Taft-funded allocations. The Applied Economics Research Institute (AERI) of the Department of Economics continued to make very good progress. Some of its accomplishments included the following: AERI accepted the responsibility of conducting the monthly survey that determines the value of the Purchasing Managers Index, interpreting the results, and publishing a comprehensive report on the economy of the Cincinnati region; AERI started a paid internship arrangement with the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, and significantly, the Department of Economics received approval to hire an Urban and Regional Economist at the Assistant Professor level. An important influence on the Dean’s decision to approve of this hire was the demonstrated success of AERI in the academic area. Graduate students working in AERI have received valuable hands-on training, followed by very competitive job offers after completion of the MA degree. Indeed, the Economics Department’s goal is to make Urban and Regional an area of concentration in the MA program.

The second DEA receiving money this year was the Program in Security and Governance administered out of the Department of Political Science. Progress was made on the curricular and facilitation objectives of the grant as the core faculty continued to develop the network necessary to sustain the program into the future. A Certificate in Security Studies was launched and in the first year of operation three students were able to earn the certificate. Significant time was dedicated to developing cross college coordination and an external partner agreement with Butler Tech to help manage courses for first responders in the context of Homeland Security. Implementation is expected in 2007-8. Additionally in support of curriculum development, the groundwork was established for an internship placement with the Army Corps of Engineers for 2007-8. The program continued to develop its facilitation role across local, state, and federal agencies dedicated to Homeland Security. Planning was completed on an Ohio River Corridor Security Conference to be held at UC that will involve five different government agencies. One of the critical aspects of the original proposal was a college commitment to a new assistant professor in national security affairs. Taft money worked successfully to leverage that commitment, however, at the end of 2005-6 the line was vacated. Given the university’s budget constraints this year, the College and the Taft Board agreed to a bridge plan replacement, so that the original commitment of the College will be sustained and current certificate courses can be met through adjunct instruction. A tenure-track hire will then take place for September 2009.

V. The Budget

In last year’s annual report under our Budget section, the Faculty Chair concluded, “in September 2006, we will have one year of Center operation behind us and be in a position to use that experience to assess the needs of the 2007-8 budget. That budget will likely need to anticipate some distributional growth in some award categories that will not have seen growth in four years.” This assessment served as the basis of a full program budget review that examined the number of applications and awards over the previous five year period across all of our competitive award categories. This was combined with a final program review of the Department Enhancement Award. The unanimous conclusion of the Board was to reinvest the budget line associated with our least competitive award (DEA, which also was our largest single budget line) into a new department enhancement for undergraduate research and into categories that had not seen increases in four or more years. Through careful re-allocation, the Board developed a 2007-8 budget proposal to be taken to the Taft Trustees that allows creation of a new program and enhancement of six existing programs without increasing the annual distribution from its level in 2006-7 as per agreement with the Trustees in opening the Center. The Board is examining a budget proposal process that would enable it to provide the Trustees with multiple year projections for planning purposes. Total 2005-6 expenditures were $1,244,020.80.

VI. Taft House: the residential component of the Taft Research Center

Along with the launch of new Center-based programming, 2005-6 saw the physical location of the Taft office move from a single office in Old Chemistry to the multi-storied Taft House at Stratford Heights. The House allowed for the Chair and Taft Secretary to be co-located finally and for all standing committees and the Executive Board to meet with on-site staff support. Importantly, the Taft lecture room, library room, and seminar room provided the physical manifestation of a burgeoning intellectual community. The House hosted over thirty organized academic events during the year, culminating in the Annual Research Symposium. Also critical to the success of our programming was the co-location of all six Center Faculty Fellows in a suite of offices in French Hall. The selection of French Hall was originally made since no Taft departments were located in the building and thus, the fellows could maximize their multi-disciplinary interactions without being pulled into department discourse. This proved a major success with all fellows agreeing that the separation was critical to their research progress. Overall, the physical infrastructure of the Taft Center, in its first
One important component of the entire Center conversion effort was to enable a Taft intellectual community to develop through residential living. In 2005-6, seven new Visiting Taft Faculty Fellows shared a living experience with six Taft Graduate students and visiting faculty from the Margo Tytus Scholars program associated with the Semple Fund and UC’s Classics Department. Each of the visiting faculty found the experience rewarding.

Administration of the Taft House residence, particularly in the context that it was a newly constructed building and under the management of a new company presented the staff of the Center (faculty chair, secretary, and part-time graduate fellow) with many challenges. Overall, the staff was required to dedicate a significant portion of time to the residential component. In 2006-7, this effort will be aided with a new graduate assistantship assigned to the Center. It will take several years to develop this program to its fullest potential, but given the promise of a successful first year of operation, the Board is confident that the residential component will become a signature feature of the Taft Center with wide disciplinary recognition.

VII. Chair’s Contingency

The Chair’s Contingency Fund serves two roles. First, it is the Taft Fund’s equivalent of departmental operating expenses, used for covering office expenses, lecture/entertainment costs and other incidental expenses associated with the normal operations of the Taft Fund. Second, it is a discretionary fund for the Chair, providing a flexible source of funding for activities which fall within the Taft Fund’s mandate, but which are not covered by any of the formally established committees and programs. Typically, toward the end of each year, over-expenditures in one category are covered by under-expenditures in others with any residue reverting to the Chair’s contingency. As authorized when the Center proposal was first presented, the fund was used primarily in 2005-6 to support start-up costs associated with the conversion to the Center. In addition, the Faculty Chair provided support for a lecture partnering with the Institute for Policy Research at UC on Non-profit organizations and a forum with the Cincinnati World Affairs Council on Nuclear Weapons and Security Issues. The fund was also used to conduct the archival research and writing of a History of the Taft Memorial Fund, which will be published in 2007.

VIII. Conclusion

The first year of the Taft Research Center corresponded with the 75th year of distribution from the Charles Phelps Taft Memorial Fund. Our culminating event held on May 3-4, 2006 to celebrate these two milestones revealed the accomplishments of many years and the true promise of the future. Over 1000 people attended Taft research and lecture events over the two days providing us a profile at and for the University of Cincinnati that heretofore had been missing. The most significant accomplishment of the year, however, was less public but ultimately more important in meeting the mission laid out by our benefactor Annie Sinton Taft many years ago – a sense of intellectual community across the Taft disciplines started to lay roots. The first year of Taft Research Center operations has given us confidence about the future of the ‘Humanities’ at the University of Cincinnati. We have much still left to do in establishing the Center, but 2005-6 was a very good start.

Respectfully submitted to the Trustees of the Charles Phelps Memorial Fund,

Richard J. Harknett, PhD.
Faculty Chair, Executive Board of the
Charles Phelps Taft Research Center and Memorial Fund
